

DEPARTMENT: BENGALI

Programme Specific Outcomes of Newly Introduced FOUR YEAR DEGREE (NEP)

Programme offered by the Department of BENGALI	Outcomes
BA MAJOR IN BENGALI	Four years degree of BA Major in Bengali will help the students to learn a methodical study about Bengali Language and Literature. Chronological study of all wings of history of Bengali literature from Tenth century to twentieth century helps students to understand the development of Bengali literature and socio-economical-political situation of Bengal in the various ages. Study of Philology and Linguistics will provide a better insight among students and add potency in their knowledge of Bengali language's evolution. Students will learn dialects, morphology, syntax and phoneme. A detailed analytical study about Bengali short story and its critical interpretation generates a socio-cultural, political image of the society in the minds of the students along with the literary benefits of the course.

Course outcomes of newly introduced Bengali Major (According to NEP Syllabus)

1 st SEMESTER	CC I	The chronological study of the History of Bengali Literature from its Origin to 18 th Centuries (i.e. Old and Medieval Literature of Bengali Language) makes a solid guidance to the evolution of Bengali Literature. This study reflects an image of old age centuries behind us and prepare the stage for Modern Bengali Literature.
	CC II	Study of Philology will enrich the students about language. Students will be familiar with the evolution from Indo-European language to present time Bengali language. They also learn Phonology and Morphology and analysis of present day Bengali language and its dialects.
2 nd SEMESTER	CC III	Students will learn the history of Bengali literature in 19 th and 20 th century. Studying this course facilitates the students to acquire knowledge about social ambiance in Bengal in the 19 th & 20 th century and the development of Bengali literature which is gradually used in Poetry, Drama, Novel.
	CC IV	Short story is a salient genre of Bengali literature. Students will gain a comprehensive understanding and critical study about Bengali short stories. They will learn the writing skill of renowned writers and Bengal's social structure.

